Yonkers Man Arrested Getting Into Stolen Car In Armour Villa

WASHINGTON — Legislation aimed at "strengthening, promoting, and improving the cooperative housing program" was introduced by Representative Robert R. Barry on July 18.

Explaining that "the steadily rising housing costs presents increasing difficulties in supplying middle-income housing," the Congressman, in a speech on the House floor today said that his bill would relieve these costs by permitting the Federal Housing Administration insurance fund to be put on a mutual basis. "By such reduction, which the operation of the fund would make, the cooperatives would subsequently reap the benefits of far greater stability," Mr. Barry declared. "Furthermore surpluses which accrue in the cooperative insurance fund would be distributed to participating cooperative mortgagors in accordance with sound actuarial accounting practices."

"Any such savings would then be passed on to the occupant members of the cooperative in lower monthly carrying charges," he continued.

Emphasizing that although the change proposed by his bill is a small one, the Congressman believes that it could have an impact on the housing market, since even a small reduction in carrying charges can enlarge the market for such housing.

The prospect of such lower costs will further stimulate the (Continued on Page Six)

Police Here Get Man In Stolen Car After Chase

Bronxville police pursued a Mount Vernon youth driving a stolen car in a chase with speeds up to 100 miles per hour and several shots fired by police early Tuesday, July 23.

However, Neal Frankel, 17, of 33 William St. finally was apprehended when the car he was driving hit a curb on Sprain Brook Parkway in Yonkers, blew a tire, and damaged a wheel.

He was returned to Mount Vernon from Bronxville and charged with auto grand larceny.

The car is owned by Joan Curcio of 2024 Benedict Ave., Bronx, and was parked overnight at the Frank Csongar service station, 422 Gramatan Ave., Mount Vernon.

Ptl. William Coles of the Bronxville Police Department stopped the youth at Winter Hill and White Plains Roads at 12:40 a.m. when the officer noticed that one of the rear lights on the car Frankel was driving was not working properly.

As the policeman walked to the car to question the driver, the auto sped off.

Ptl. Coles jumped into his patrol car and gave chase. He later said that the driver turned into the Cross County Parkway and then into Sprain Brook Parkway at speeds up to 100 miles per hour. The officer sent four shots winging at the fleeing car, but apparently none struck their mark. He arrested the youth after the fleeing car hit the parkway curb.

'Classic' All-Night Rally In Fairfield

The "Connecticut Classic" All Night Rally, an annual "must" for northeastern sports car enthusiasts, will be held this year on Saturday, Aug. 17.

The event, sponsored by the Fairfield County Sports Car Club, is a 300-mile, 12-hour touring test. It will start from the Sperry Semi-Conductor Corp. parking lot, at the Route 7 exit of the Merritt Parkway in Norwalk, Conn.

The "Classic," as the rally is proudly known, drew enthusiasts from six states last year. Unlike conventional American rallies, the Classic is a European-type driver's event, in which calculating is minimized.

The event is open to sports cars, European sedans and American compact cars. Because the rally is run over twisty roads to test handling, full-size domestic cars are considered unsuitable.

Entry brochures may be obtained by writing to the registration chairman, Paul Weissler, 15 Marcia Place, Bronx 52, N.Y.

Jazz will be featured at the Thursday evening concert at the Kensico Dam Plaza July 25 at 8 p.m. Max Kaminsky, renowned trumpeter, will headline the array of jazz stars who will appear, including John Bunch, Jimmie Hall, Carmen Leggio, and Sal Pace.

Interior Decoration Should Not Reflect A Sense Of Amusement

By WILLIAM PAHLMANN

Amusement in interior design is something you occasionally read about in the magazines or see in a decoration show, and while it is all right to be light-hearted about decoration if you are a light-hearted person, I feel it is important to keep a tight rein on "fun," unless you can afford to change your interiors very often. Rooms shown in magazines are often planned for photographic impact, and the rooms in a show must necessarily have some display aspects. They are over-dramatized because they are to be looked at and not lived in. Rooms that clown around are not often restful or inviting, and even if the dweller in these rooms is humorous, he himself may get very tired of them.

"Fun things" in interiors should definitely reflect the nature of the inhabitants, and if you are a girl who is tickled by Victoriana and wants a shelf of grandpa's moustache cups, there is probably not much I can do to stop you. I have known some ladies to go so far in this direction that the whole house begins to look like a thrift shop.

I also have a bachelor friend who runs to chairs made out of antlers and buck horns, collects spitoons, and keeps elephant tusks standing in the corner where they are likely to fall and bash the heads of the unwary. Nobody really wants to die laughing in a room.

If you have such a strong sense of fun you feel the need to be surrounded by antic accessories, maybe it would be a good idea to confine all these jokes to your personal quarters. If you are a sober sides, ignore the whole thing, as nothing looks sillier than giddy furniture or coy rugs or crazy accessories around a serious mind.

Touch Goes Long Way

It is possible to be amusing without going the whole hog. Trompe d'oeil (fool-the-eye) painting on furniture or walls can be a lasting pleasure if the painting has real wit and distinction in the production. A dismal bathroom or a dark little powder room can be retrieved and become a conversation piece with judiciously planned trompe d'oeil. Amusing collections — monkeys, owls, pigs, old toys, patented banks etc.—can give a feeling of gaiety to an interior if they are displayed properly.

Some of the "fun things" I see in the market place are elaborate wire chairs shaped like people, woven grass rugs simulating tiger skins, wicker animals that camouflage a laundry hamper, felt sofa pillows that emulate a slice of watermelon or a cross-section of an orange, cartoon-covered shower curtains crazy wallpaper, garden tables shaped like daisies and anything with a poodle on it.

There are a variety of accessories available too tasteless to describe and I hope you will avoid wasting money on them as they ruin the looks of a room. Do not give them to friends who have everything," because they may not know what to do with them. If somebody gives you some of these impossible objects, the only thing to do is to laugh heartily and throw it away.

Knife-Twirling Youth Arrested As Abusive

In his efforts to get his knife back, the youth became abusive, the chief said. James was arrested on a charge of possession of a dangerous weapon and is in the County Jail to await trial July 30.

1962 A Big Year For Accidents In The Nation

The accident toll jumped sharply in the United States during 1962 when an average of more than 135,000 persons suffered accidents each day of the year, the Health Insurance Institute reported today.

A total of 49.8 million persons suffered injuries last year causing one or more days of restricted activity or requiring medical attention, said the Institute in reporting on data developed by the U.S. Public Health Service.

The 1962 total was by far the highest in recent years. The next highest years were 1958 and 1961, each with 47.1 million accidents. In that span, 1959 was low with 43.0 million accidents.

The nation now is heading into the summer months of July, August, and September which generally account for the biggest quarter in accidents. The third-quarter of 1962 produced 14.1 million accidents, followed by the second-quarter—April, May, June—with 13.7 million, a jump of 2.1 million over the second-quarter of 1961.

In terms of the types of accidents which occurred, the most dramatic changes came in motor vehicle accidents and accidents on the job, said the Institute.

Last year, 5.1 million persons were injured in motor vehicle accidents, reversing the trend which began in 1961 when 4.4 million persons were so injured and returning to the pace of 1960 when 5.0 million were injured, stated the Institute.

A downward trend continued in the number of persons injured in accidents while at work. The 1962 toll was 7.2 million persons so injured, down significantly from the 1961 figure of 7.6 million, and a steep drop from the 1960 toll of 8.7 million.

Home continued to be the most dangerous spot, said the Institute. A total of 21.4 million persons were injured in the home in 1962, an increase over the 1961 total of 20.6 million persons, itself a jump over the 1960 total of 19.0 million persons. All other accidents injured 16.2 million persons last year, compared to 14.4 million in 1961, and 13.8 million in 1960.

The Bard Comes To Croton-on-Hudson

The click of steel on steel, the bang of hammers, the swish of sewing needles pulled through silk, the strains of Elizabethan music wafted over green lawns — these are some of the daily summer sounds at busy Croton-on-Hudson.

Hundreds of Croton's 6,000 residents, of all ages and many skills and interests, have thrown themselves into a dozen different activities in a broad-based, coordinated community effort to prepare for the second Shakespeare Festival at Croton.

"Julius Caesar" will be given at Croton-Harmon High School auditorium Aug. 8, 11 and 16; "Twelfth Night" on Aug. 9, 12 and 17; and "Hamlet" on Aug. 10, 13, and 15.

The idea was originated last year by Frederick W. Blais, English teacher and drama coach at the school; this year he has an assistant director, Lee Davis of Lakeland high school.

Horse And Buggy Days Still Here —In Museum

Gigs, whisks, shays, sulky, and surreys are among the 300 reminders of the horse and buggy days on display in the Carriage House on Long Island. Part of the Stony Brook Museum, this collection of horse-drawn vehicles is the largest in New York State.

The whiskey, like the gig, shay and sulky, was a two-wheeled speedster used by the young sports of Grandpa's day. The vehicle got its name because of the speeds at which it whisked through town. The shay, made famous by Oliver Wendell Holmes poem, "The Wonderful One-Horse Shay," was a corruption of the original term "chaise," a two-wheeled vehicle with a folding top.

There are exhibits too, of the famous Hansom cab, the horse-drawn predecessor of the taxi. The first Hansom cab, invented in 1834 by British architect J. A. Hansom was a complete flop. The wheels were seven feet high, with the driver's seat perched ungainly on the roof. Redesigned two years later by John Chapman, it has come down through the years as one of the most graceful means of travel.

Still used by harness racing drivers, the sulky earned its name because a certain English doctor got so disgusted with neighbors asking to accompany him on professional calls that he had a carriage built with only one seat. But history gave his neighbors the last word. For the vehicle retains the adjective they had for the selfish doctor—"the sulky gentleman."

The surrey, a four-wheel family vehicle of song and story, did not always have a fringe on top. A modification of the buckboard, it had seats for six people and was usually pulled by two horses. As the family sedan of the times, the surrey remains, like the Hansom cab, one of the most nostalgic symbols of the horse and buggy days.

The Suffolk Museum is among the tourist attractions listed in the free guidebook, "New York State Vacationlands," issued by the New York State Department of Commerce, 112 State Street, Albany 7, New York.

Over 3 Million Have More Than One Job

Three million or more persons have held down more than one job annually since the mid-Fifties, averaging around one out of every 20 of all those employed, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. The figure in the latest survey as of a year ago was 3.3 millions, highest since 1957. The recent peak was over 3.6 millions in 1956.

The study found that persons most likely to have more than one job were those whose main source of livelihood was in farming, teaching, the postal service, and the protective service occupations (guards, firemen and policemen). The predominant part of the multiple jobholders worked full time on their principal job and part time on the extra one.

In nearly a third of the cases the supplementary job was some form of self-employment. Proportionally, three times as many men had an extra job as women. Though popularly known as "moonlighting," only about a third of the extra jobs were night work.

Oriskany Battlefield Near Rome Becomes A National Landmark

ALBANY, N. Y. — Presentation of a plaque and certificate designating the Oriskany Battlefield, near Rome, as a National Landmark will again highlight the Mohawk Valley's crucial role in American history.

The ceremony, points out the State Commerce Department, will also mark the 186th anniversary — less three days — of one of the bloodiest battles of the American Revolution. A newly built Visitors Center on the battlefield will be dedicated and opened to the public. Exhibits will tell the story of the conflict.

Oriskany Battlefield is on Route 69, about five miles east of Rome. Here on August 6, 1777, occurred the small but costly fight between American militiamen and a combined force of Loyalists and Indians. The Americans, consisting of about 800 Tryon County militia led by General Nicholas Herkimer, were ambushed as they marched to the relief of beleaguered Fort Stanwix, now the city of Rome.

A third of those on both sides were killed or wounded in the fierce struggle. General Herkimer himself, though seriously wounded, kept command of his militia until the enemy was routed. He died ten days later at his home, now a state-owned historic site near Little Falls.

Tourists in the Mohawk Valley can visit several other places of historic interest. At nearby Rome is the Fort Stanwix Museum and the grave of Francis Bellamy, co-author of the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag. It was at Fort Stanwix that the "Stars and Stripes" was first hoisted in battle.

General Herkimer's home is three miles east of Little Falls, on Route 5 S. "Old Honikol," as the hero of Oriskany was called, built this house on land given him by his father. It contains many mementoes of the farmer-patriot.

The Herkimer Home is not as pretentious as Johnson Hall at Johnstown, another historic site in the Mohawk Valley. Restored to its 1763 appearance, Johnson Hall is the largest and most elegant of the many homes built by Sir William Johnson, superintendent of Indian Affairs for the British Crown. One of the most impressive men of Colonial America, Johnson did not live to see the conflict with his king, but his son John sided with the Loyalists and as a result the properties were confiscated after the Revolutionary War.

A unique feature of Johnson Hall is the working model of the entire estate which, through a taped narration, gives visitors a vivid description of the Hall. Johnson Hall has already been designated a National Landmark.

The home given by Sir William to his daughter Mary on her marriage is at 366 Main Street in Amsterdam. Called "Guy Park," it is a typical mansion of the 1770s.

These historic sites are administered by the State of New York through the Education Department. They are open daily from 9 a.m. through 5 p.m., and from 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays. There is no admission charge.

Further information about the 23 state-owned historic places may be obtained by writing to the State Commerce Department, 112 State Street, Albany 7, New York.

Necessity May Be The Mother Of Invention But Patent Is The Big Daddy

Necessity may be the mother of invention, but its Big Daddy is the patent.

July 31 is the anniversary of the day when the first patent was issued in the United States. That was in 1790 — little more than a year after the new government began operating. It was only a process for "making pot and pearl ashes," otherwise known as potash, reports World Book Encyclopedia, but so important was the event that President Washington himself signed the patent awarded to Samuel Hopkins of Vermont. Endorsing the document was the then Secretary of State Jefferson, no mean gadgeteer himself, whose inventions include the swivel chair and the dumb-waiter.

Why all the fuss about the patent?

Statesmen before and after Washington have praised it as a spur to invention and hence, technological advance. And some observers have even credited it with the Western world's high standard of living.

A patent is simply a limited monopoly which secures to an inventor the fruits of his labor. For 17 years he has the exclusive right to make, sell, or use his invention. Of course, it may be a profitless 17 years . . . if some part of his invention has been patented by an earlier inventor who refuses to let him use it. But at the end of that period, the invention becomes accessible to the public at large and scientific knowledge is increased.

Women began making their contributions to scientific knowledge as early as 1809, when Mary Kies was granted a patent for a method of weaving straw with silk or thread.

A few thousand patents later,

Illinois named Abraham Lincoln received one for "A Device for Buoying Vessels over Shoals." The device must have been a success, because Lincoln later declared appreciatively, "The Patent System added the fuel of interest to the fire of genius."

About this time, unfortunately, the fire of genius was just what the examiners were demanding proof of, before they would grant a patent. Inventors who labored long and hard over their creations but were unable to show that spark of "divine madness" were turned away, while less-than-brilliant tinkerers who might have stumbled onto an idea or a device by accident were rewarded. In 1952, Congress decided there weren't enough geniuses to go around and changed the patent laws.

The requirement, however, proved no obstacle to Mark Twain, who received three patents. In 1873 he was awarded one for "Mark Twain's Self-Pasting Scrapbook," a book of blank pages coated with gum or veneer. He sold 25,000 copies during the first royalty period, leading one writer to comment that this was well enough for a book that did not contain a single word that critics could praise or condemn."

UNDERHILL'S CROSSING

The point where Pondfield Road West bridges the Bronx River in Bronxville was once a ford called Underhill's Crossing, a name which applied to the general area in early days. As one crosses the bridge from Armour Villa the foundations of the venerable gristmill may still be seen on the east bank under the parking lot of the new apartment house. The mill later was Swain's Cutlery Factory, and prior to its razng for the erection of the multiple dwelling was the Westchester County Parkway Police headquarters.

Fight Ends In Hospital For Two Tuckahoe Women

TUCKAHOE — What began as a verbal disagreement between two women ballooned into a pushing match, ending up in the police station on Monday afternoon with both participants accusing each other of third-degree assault, police report.

Both women also were attended at Lawrence Hospital in Bronxville for injuries suffered during the struggle. Muriel Dixon, 21, of 39 Midland Pl. at whose home the argument took place, had a cut on the right side of the head, requiring three stitches, suffered when she fell and hit a radiator pipe. She also suffered a laceration of the forehead.

ISN'T ARBITRATION BETTER THAN A NATION-WIDE RAIL STRIKE?

When two people find it impossible to agree, they frequently leave the decision up to a third party. This is arbitration.

Arbitration, we believe, is the only way left to head off a crippling nation-wide rail strike. The railroads have repeatedly said they are willing to leave the decision in the work rules dispute to an impartial third party. The rail unions have consistently refused to trust their case to such impartial analysis and decision.

The only remaining solution appears to be action by Congress requiring both parties to submit to arbitration.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS? WHAT COULD BE FAIRER?

The public overwhelmingly favors arbitration over a rail strike. A recent nation-wide survey by one of America's oldest and most respected opinion research organizations showed a three to one vote among the general public for arbitration in the transportation industry (60% for, 20% against, 20% no opinion).

Do union members share their leaders' opposition to arbitration?

THEY DO NOT!

The same survey showed 54% of union members in favor of arbitration over a strike, 30% in opposition, and 16% no opinion.

How do union families who stand the brunt of a work stoppage feel about arbitration? By a greater majority than the general public, they favor arbitration over a strike. Sixty-six per cent of the union families support arbitration, while only 19% oppose, and 15% express no opinion.

In view of the basic fairness of an impartial third party decision when two sides fail to agree; in view of the overwhelming public support for the principle of arbitration in transportation; and in view of the disastrous consequences of a nation-wide rail strike, Congress can serve the public interest best by promptly enacting legislation requiring a settlement of the issues in this dispute.

Giants Pulverize Chics, 17-6; To Hold Lead In Richards Loop

N. E. YONKERS — Scoring in every inning except the fifth, the Giants routed the second place Chics by a 17 to 6 score and tightened their hold on first place in the Henry S. Richards Senior League. Should the Giants beat the Yankees next weekend in their final game of the season, they will have annexed the senior crown two years in succession. The Giants assured themselves of no worse than a tie for the club championship should they lose this one and the Chics win their remaining two games against the Dodgers and Yankees.

Smashing out 16 hits and exploding for seven runs in the fourth inning, the Giants had an easy time of it with the Chics contributing nine errors. Dee Myers, the Giant starting pitcher, could not hold a three run head start in the first inning when the Chics came back in the same inning to score four times before anyone was out. Tommy Calone relieved Myers, proceeded to strike out the side and went the distance allowing but one hit and striking out 15 in all.

Haggerty, the starting pitcher for the Chics, was relieved by Tom Ficaro in the disastrous fourth and finished up. For the Giants, Calone, Alan Smalls and Ken Kalbfell got three hits each with Don Solomon and Dee Myers collecting two each.

Don Haggerty and Tony Ficaro of the Chics had better luck when they faced the Dodgers and beat them 8 to 4, with Ficaro getting credit for the win. Ed Simon started for the Dodgers and was relieved in the third inning by Mark Myers when the Chics scored six times.

'Junior Olympics' Highlight Activities At Bronxville Day Camp

The score was tied at 2 to 2 when Phil Pirovitz slashed a double to left with two on routing Simon and bringing on Myers who finished up the ball game. Bobby Wasilak of the Dodgers went two for two and collected a walk in his three appearances at the plate.

Caione picked up his second win of the week by blanking the Yankees, 3-0, allowing but three hits and striking out nine in a twilight contest. Nick Antonecchia pitched four-hit ball for the Yankees and the runs scored by the Giants were all unearned. Both catchers, Johnny Hayes for the Yankees and Kenny Kalbfell for the Giants, went two for two.

The league standings are as follows: Giants, 10-4; Chics 8-5; Yankees, 5-8, and Dodgers, 4-10. Busters Win 20-2

In a two and one-half battle

Going to the opposite extreme a paucity of runs were given up in the Busters meeting with the Yonkers Perfect Laundry squad.

The game ended in a 0-0 tie at the end of eight innings on Thursday night, July 18. Engaged in the hurlers' duel was Laundrymen's Mike Ford, who faced 29 men in six innings, striking out 15 while walking five and giving up only four hits, and Frank Conlin for the Busters, who pitched to only 19 batters in six innings, striking out seven and walking none, allowing but two hits.

Chris Bruno pitched for the Laundrymen in the seventh and eighth frames opposing Val Padalario for the Busters. Commissioner Robert Rundy called the game on account of darkness. It is to be played at a later date. Hitting were Busters' Callahan, who doubled Conlin and Maccagno, who picked up three singles between them; Chris Bruno got both the Laundrymen hits, both being singles.
