History Of Racing At Freeport Stadium

Good evening. Welcome to the Freeport Auto Races, known throughout the world as America's trend-setting short-track.

Did you know that there is only one race track in the United States that annually seats more paying customers than Freeport? That's true, and it's the one and only Indianapolis Motor Speedway! Of course, they do it in a day, and it takes a whole season at Freeport, but no other race track can make that claim. In fact, the Freeport Auto Races is not only the nation's best attended short-track, but it's also the oldest continuously run short-track in the country.

How did this all come about? Basically, the Freeport Auto Races story is a "people" story, because it's people that make places great. The first person, was the late Jake Kedenburg, Jake was the Park Commissioner of the Village of Freeport, back in the early 1930's Jake believed in people and helping them had its own rewards for him. That's why Jake took the non-salaried Park Commissioners job, in addition to his regular work as a tile contractor. Jake helped get the W.P.A. funds that built the Freeport Municipal Stadium, and he negotiated with the men who promoted the motorcycle races that were the initial attraction in the stadium.

But, the motorcycle races didn't draw people, and Jake knew that something was wrong. So, he quit as Park Commissioner (no "confict of interest" for him) and started promoting auto racing. From the beginning, Jake and his highly professional associates made a tremendous success of it. More racing innovations have originated here at Freeport, than at any other race track, and more famous drivers got their starts here, than at any track in the country.

Today, Jake's widow, Billie Kedenburg carries on the Kedenburg tradition, as well as the name, in partnership with Jake's former partner "Duke" Donaldson. And today, Freeport continues to set the pace in racing innovations, such as this season's Crash-A-Roo Contests and Bomber Class.

Over the years, the success of the Kedenburg/Donaldson combination has, rightfully, been looked to as the example of other tracks to follow—and why not? After all, what other track can boast of running 50 to 60 dates a year? What track can talk of nearly 8,500 competitive laps a year? That's more than a quarter of a million laps since 1932. Nearly seven million customers have seen the finest racing anywhere, right here at Freeport!

As we said, the Freeport Auto Races Story is a "people" story. And these people are of many types. It takes more than 80 paid employees to bring you the smooth, professionally run presentation that you're seeing tonight, each and every one of them wholely and completely committed to giving you the fans the best possible racing show. In the front office, for example, is Lucy Cascio, a veteran at running the business end of racing. Our starter, Frank Chellemi, himself a former driving star, is the best "flag-waver" in the business. Caspar Buttafuoco, Angelo Raso and Eddie Jackson of the Technical Committee are efficient beyond belief, and far too sharp to be fooled. Stewards Don Wright, Herb Sparnecht and John Tinyes ably assist Racing Director Joe Alfano. All of these people are the best to be found.

The end result of the dutiful labor on the part of all of the staff here at the Freeport Auto Races, plus the drivers, car owners and mechanics in each of the classes— Modifieds, Bombers, Midgets and Crash-A-Roo—is the finest, most exciting short-track auto racing anywhere. Does it pay off? You bet! The list of drivers that have run here reads like a "Who's Who" of racing: Indianapolis veterans Ronnie Householder, Art Cross, Bill Schindler, Mike Nazaruk, Henry Banks, Harry McQuinn, Eddie Sachs, Bobby Marshman and lately, Mario Andretti. And Indianapolis winners Johnny Parsons, Bill Holand and Sam Hanks. They've all been here, and many, many more. Who's to say that one of the drivers that you're seeing in action here tonight won't be going on to Indy? Certainly not us!

Please direct any questions that you might have concerning Freeport Auto Races rules, schedules, group rates, or whatever. to: Kedenburg Racing Assn., P.O. Box 148, Freeport, N.Y.
